Plano High School has been here for one hundred and one years, and sports have been a part of it for almost that long. With baseball as its first sport, Plano High School's athletic history is over ninety years old. These sometimes awful, sometimes great records began in the late 1880's. Football was soon added baseball in the sports schedule. In the years 1910 through 1926 and 1935 through 1940, Plano did not have football; otherwise it has been a part of the school continually. Joining the P.H.S sports calendar in the early 1900's, track has been alternating and sharing the line up as the spring sport.

While basketball was played by the town team earlier, its first season in the high school was the 1911-12 season. Every winter since then, Plano High School cagers have taken the floor. In the early years the second team, which played the preliminary game, was called the light weights. This game did not really count, as anyone but the starting five of the varsity or heavy weights could play and as it was played mainly for practice. In 1945 Plano began the present varsity and frosh-soph system.

Softball was played off and on as a fall sport when there was no interscholastic competition in football.

Added in 1967, golf has been by far the most successful sport at Plano High School. Twice the golf team has won their district, once they qualified for the state meet(receiving fourth place) and only once did the varsity fail to have a winning season. From 1967 until the spring of 1975, golf was a spring sport. Since the fall of 1975 until it was cancelled last year, golf was a fall sport. Another sport that joined the sports schedule in that year was wrestling.

A variety of sports have been added in the 1970's. Harriers began running cross country in the fall of 1971 and continued until last year, when financial difficulties forced school officials to remove cross country from the schedule. However, in their recent history at Plano, the Purple Pride Striders-as they are nicknamed- accomplished a reat deal and brought quite a bit of notoriety to our school. In 1977 the team won 4th place in the state.

In the old days, girls sports were strictly intramural. The girls played basketball, softball and volleyball in sailor suit tops and bloomers. With the women's rights movement pressing for equal opportunities in the athletic field for girls, Plano High School abandonned the Girls Athletic Association (G.A.A.) and offered interscholastic competition for girls. Conference play and play-offs in the state tournament are included in the competition. As an extension of the G.A.A., Plano participated in the archery state tournament in 1972 through 1974. Bowling was added in 1974, and a year later the girls went down state. Both those sports have since been discontinued.

Another girls' sport is track. In its sixth year at Plano, track has been an interscholastic competition since 1975. While Plano has never done very well as a team, such individual performers as Sandy Baker, Sheila Rexrode, Patti Smith and Lori Hyatt have represented their school brilliantly. As a interscholastic sport since 1974, volleyball is another sport which has sprung from the G.A.A.

The two most recently included sports -soccer and basketball- have been the most successful girls' sports. Since its beginning at P.H.S. in 1975, soccer has had good records, but it really reached its peak in the fall of 1977 when the junior varsity went undefeated.

Its varsity debut in the 1975-76 season, girls' basketball has steadily improved. This year the team won more games than in the other three years combined. Their 21 and 4 record is the best varsity basketball record ever posted in the school.

It seems that in the past few years the Reaper fans have had much to cheer about in certain sports. Jeff Benoit placed 4th in the state wrestling meet in 1975. A year later, the golf team won 4th in the state. Next year still another 4th was won; this time by the cross country team. Another fall sport, football, smashed the headlines that year with a 7-1-1 record and narrowly missed receiving an at large play-off berth. Again in 1978 two sports made headlines. Dave Olson and Tim Warren wrestled their way downstate. Later in the year, Lori Hyatt followed their path downstate and captured 2nd place in the discus. This year was a magic year for the girls basketball team. While compiling a 21 and 4 record, the girls brought home two trophies, a district plaque, and battled their way to the championship of the regionals.

Not only have the records changed, but also the games themselves.

Football has changed much since the turn of the century. Not only have the rules and scoring changed, but also the style of play. Rough play and hard hitting chararctorized the game before slugging and piling on were illegalized. Formations such as the flying wedge infured many ball players. The game became more civilized after the invention of the forward pass; and other rules were modified. The players wore absolutely no padding or helmets in a sport in which bruises and broken bones were common. Gridders back then had to be tough since once a player was in the game, he was there to stay. With only 11 players on the team there were no substitutes.

Football resembled soccer and rugby in its early years. More emphasis was put on kicking the ball, that was much rounder than it is today. A field goal was worth five points and a goal after touch down was worth two points, while a touchdown was worth only four points in 1893. Changed in 1912, the value for a touch dwon became six points. That rule still applies, and now a field goal is worth three points, kicking a goal after a touchdwon is worth one point and carrying or catching the ball in the end zone after a touchdown is worth two points.

The 1905 team had one of their own specially designed plays. When Plano pushed the ball down near the goal line or were close to a first down, they called this play. After the ball was hiked to the quarterback, Toomey Burson, the backs would pick up light weighted Burson and throw him over the line. Many points were tolled by this unorthodoxed manner of scoring.

Games were not divided into quarters. They were played in halves. Untimed, games ended or were called at a predesignated time.

Basketball has changed quite a bit since its infant season, 1911-12, at Plano High School. The scoring system of two points for a field goal and one for a free throw has not changed. Before the center jump after each basket was eliminated, games were low scoring. This is also due to the facts that the ball was larger and the hoop the same size, and no ten second back court violation was called. The jump shot replaced the one and two hand set shots to revolutionize the scoring attack.

Baseball has remained virtually the same since it was first played at P.H.S. The ball was softer, the bases were practically pillows, and gloves were smaller, but the game is still made of hits, runs and errors.

In the short history of wrestling the scoring has changed dramatically. Before 1972, a pin was given five team points and a decision was given three. Now, six team points are given for a pin, five points for a major decision, four points for a superior decision, three points for a decision, and two points for a tie. One point is given for a forfeit.

In track, scoring went as follows in the early days: 10 points for first, 7 for second, 5 for third, 3 for fourth, and 1 for fifth. Now the scoring is as follows: 5 points for first, 4 points for second, 3 points for third, 2 points for fourth, and 1 point for fifth. Running, jumping, and throwing, probalely the oldest sports, remain basically the same. Back in 1929, when Charles Sorenson was the first northern Illinois prep athlete to clear six feet, the rules stated that high jumpers had to jump over the bar feet first. The only restriction in the high jump today is that the jumper must take off of one foot. The equipment is the most changed element in the game. All weather or cinder tracks took the place of earthen tracks. Some tracks are even indoors. A mat now lies were the sand pits did- under the pole vault and high jump. Sprinters use starting blocks. Pole vault poles are composed of fiber glass, instead of bamboo or wood. Shoes are especially designed for different events.

Only a interscholastic sports for a few years; golf, wrestling, cross country, volleyball, bowling and soccer have changed very little over the years.

Although Plano has not had any legendary teams, they have had some outstanding athletes. One of the finest all around athletes was Norman "Toomey" Burson. Graduating from Plano High School in 1907, Burson played baseball, football, and track for the purple and white and later went on to star and break records for the University of Illinois and De Paul. In baseball he was probalely the best pitcher to toe the rubber for Plano High School. Quarterback was his position in football, while he was quite a sprinter and distance runner in track. Basketball was not a interscholastic sport at Plano when Burson was in school or undoubtabley he would have starred in that, too. (In college, however, he played basketball and was a four letter man).

During the 1905 season, Burson led Plano to victories over Morris, Joliet, Rockford, East Aurora, and West Aurora. Plano played these schools that were much larger because they were the only schools in the area that played football.

One time the boys got into a sticky situation down in Morris. Behind Burson and the rest of the backs, Plano pounded Morris quite unmercifully (52-6) in a game played at Plano. When the Plano boys travelled down to Morris for the return match, the Morris fans, mostly the boys' fathers wanted to reverse that outcome. In 1905 Morris was a rough and tumble coal mining town. Our boys began to add up the score, and the slightly intoxicated Morris fathers began to hassle the Plano players, especially the backs. Soon, the miners threatened the referees into giving Morris five downs for a first down and other rule modifications. When the game ended and Plano had won, the boys made a bee line to their hayrack they had rode down on and made it out of town in front of the angry coal miners.

The first prep athlete in the area to clear six foot, Charlie Sorenson, was a fine high jumper. This accomplishment is even more impressive when one considers that the WORLD record at that time was only 6' 8". Sorenson narrowly missed qualifying for the state meet in his senior year, 1929, because of an incident that clearly showed the ever present animosity toward smaller schools in the first half of this century.

At the district meet there were five jumpers entered in the high jump, Sorenson being the third. Since it began to rain, only the first two jumpers were allowed to jump, instead of normal turn taking process. As an athlete from a small school, he had to wait until after the rain stopped and the ground near the bar was a mud slick to jump. Of course he and the other two jumpers, who had not jumped, slipped around in the mud and did not even come close to what they would normally jump. Although Sorenson had the highest jump in the state that year, and had beaten the state champion in a previous meet, he did not go down state and did not get a chance at the state title, in which he was a favorite to win. This reminds one of the heartbreak felt by Lori Hyatt, who last year placed second in the discus in the state. Hyatt had the best throw in the state that year and had led the competition until the final round. Victory was snatched out of her hands when a girls from Sannemon waited for a strong tailwind to throw the first place mark.

Standin six foot five, Norman Hage won recognition as an outstanding basketball player. With a 30 point average a game, Hage led the area in scoring and was named to the Prep All-American Honorable Mention team by Coach and Athlete Magazine in his senior year, 1964.

Glen Johns (1944), who played with broken arms and noses, Leigh Kolka (1972) and Dave Olson (1978) have helped to keep the Plano football pride high. While Johns and Olson smashed scoring records, Kolka rewrote just about every passing record at Plano High School.

Born with clubs in their hands, Lonnie Clapper, Ray Gorzney, Lee Bracken, Paul Krentz, Leigh Kolka, and Eddie Kolka have helped make golf the most successful sport in Reaper history.

The Nelson brothers, Sorensens, Bakers, and Henning were some of the outstanding athletic families at Plano High School. Playing for Illinois and Michigan (respectively), Lou and Jim Sears made a great father and son baseball duo.

Plano has had four high school buildings (however, in 1927 and 1928 an assortment of town buildings were used to house the high school until the new building was completed), and the high school teams have used many more athletic fields and courts.

In the early days of Plano High School baseball, the field at Seward's Park was the home field site. Located just north of the present city park, the diamond was used until the late 1920's. During the thirties, forties and fifties, the Plano boys played ball south of the Bingamon Administration Center, the high school at that time, where the Middle School now stands. When the present city park was built, the Reapers made that their home field, where they have played ever since.

The first Plano High School football field was Gifford's pasture. This was located where S. Mary's School now stands. Until the late 1920's this was the purple and white's home gridiron. When the high school was moved into the new building (present Bingamon Administration Center), the area south of the high school, adjacent to the baseball field, became the football field. During the war years, Plano played all its home games at the Yorkville Y. Afterwards, Plano returned to their home field and remained there until a new high school (present Middle School) was built. A field was set up directly behind the school, and it is still the "Home of the Reapers." Planned a new football stadium will be built, hopefully, in the next few years, in back of the new high school.

Bounced around, the basketball team has played on many courts. While the high school was in the first high school building (Old North Side School: erected 1893 torn down: 1965), it shared the building with the grammar school. There was no gymnasium, and consequently, games had to be played first in the opera house (present theater) and later in Kramer's Hall. Kramer's Hall was located above Lamar's Tavern and Cooper's Home Furnishings. Incidentally, the backboards are still there. When the new high school was built in 1929 (Bingamon Administration Center), a basketball gym was one of its features. Of course, the high schools constructed in 1960 and 1976 both have large gyms. Gymnasiums and courts in the early days were extremely small compared to the modern ones and were sometimes, although not at Plano, decorated with posts, pillars or anything else that supported the ceiling. One such case was Earlville's basketball court.

Tracks usually accompanied the football fields. However, the early 1900's and 1920's saw the track meets being held at Seward's Park. Dually used with the football field, running east-west in back of the last high school, and running north-south to the west of the present high school have been the sites for soccer fields. Volleyball courts have been marked over the basketball courts. Cross country teams held their meets at Cederdell golf course or the sand pits. Making use of recreational facilities, the golf team's home course was Cederdall Golf Course, and the bowling teams domain was Plano Recreational Bowling Alleys.

Formed in the 1919-20 year, the Little Ten Conference is one of the oldest conferences in the Illinois High School Association. As a charter member from the Little Ten Conference's inception until the 1966-67 season, in which she left to join the Northeast Conference. Other charter members include Earlville, Hinckley, Leland, Paw Paw, Rollo, Sandwich, Shabbona, Somonauk, and Waterman. Added in later years were Serena, Newark, Malta and Sheridan. When Little 8 Conference member, Big Rock, consolidated with Hinckley in 1957; the resulting school, Hinckley-Big Rock, became a member of the Little Ten Conference.

Held annually since 1927 have been the Little Ten Track Meet and the Little Ten Basketball Tournament. The Little Ten Conference offered competition in baseball, basketball, track, and softball in its early years. Golf was added in the mid sixties. However, it did not offer intra-conference play in football.

Since there was no true conference competition in the Little Ten, (although along with Plano, Sandwich, and Earlville; Paw Paw, Waterman and Hinckley did field football teams in the early years), Plano, along with Sandwich joined the Fox Valley Football Conference sometime in the mid thirties. Besides Plano and Sandwich, Yorkville and Plainfield were original members of that conference. Playing football in the Fox Valley Conference, Plano was in two conferences at the same time: the Fox Valley Conference for football and the Little Ten Conference for all other sports. Oswego was also a member of the Fox Valley Conference for a time. The formation of the Northeast Conference caused the disintegration of the Fox Valley Conference. Plano, Sandwich, Yorkville, Lisle, and Lemont were members of the Fox Valley Conference when it broke up. These five became the basis for the newly formed Northeast Conference.

Because of the enrollment difference between the rest of the Little Ten schools and Plano and Sandwich, and the desire to have a larger football oriented conference; Plano and Sandwich left the Little Ten Conference and along with the other Fox Valley Football Conference schools formed the Northeast Conference. Dwight, Marseilles and Wilmington joined the old Fox Valley Conference teams to become the original components of this new conference. Not only did this new league offer competition in baseball, basketball, golf, track and later cross country, bowling, soccer, volleyball, girls' track, girls' basketball and wrestling, but it offered and required member schools to field a football team. During the 1976-77 year, cutbacks in the school budget forced Sandwich to drop all interscholastic competition, which in turn meant Sandwich would have to drop out of the Northeast Conference. Minooka, Seneca, Coal City and Westmont were the more recently inducted members.

Problems of school enrollment differences between member schools and traveling distances have plagued the Northeast Conference.

This is the last season for the Northeast Conference. Beginning in the 1979-80 season, Plano will be a member of the Interstate Eight Conference, which will include Plano, Yorkville, Seneca, Marseilles, Coal City, Reed Custer (Braidwood), Wilmington and Dwight. Conference sports will include football, volleyball, wrestling, boys' basketball, girls' basketball, baseball, boys' track, girls' track, and possibly girls' softball and bowling.

Playing summer baseball, Plano was a member of the Quad-County baseball league. To alleviate the conflict between track and baseball, Plano joined this league consisting of the following teams: Lisle, North Aurora, Geneva, DeKalb, Hampshire, Batavia, Kaneland and Plano. This lasted from 1973 until 1976, when Plano reinstated spring baseball.

PLANO HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS RECORDS.

Due to the scarcity of records, especially of older years and spring sports, the statistics recorded here are incomplete. Also, since there are conflicting statistics from different sources, some of the records may be incorrect. Finding no decipherable records before 1911-12, they will begin there!

Linda-

I regret the slight delay in getting to you the information you were seeking concerning scores of past Plano High School football games. The following I think may be of some value to you.

Class of 1960. (Fall of 1959)

Oswego-40
Plano- 12

This was the first year that Bob Reade coached at Plano High School.

Class of 1961 (Fall of 1960)

Earlville-27
Plano- 0

This score checks out in both the Aurora Beacon and the Ottawa Times.

Class of 1963 (Fall of 1962)

Oswego- 38
Plano- 0

If in the future you need the score of a particular football or basketball game go to the approximate starting time of the seasons first game. Many papers carry full schedules and you might be able to go right to that game you are looking for. There are a great many approaches available if one is willing to really dig for back scores. In searching for back Plano scores I suggest you make use of yearbooks, local newspapers, newspapers such as the Aurora Beacon, Ottawa Times, and DeKalb Chronicle. And if you know the opponent Plano played you might try newspapers that cover the foe Plano took on. Minooka, for instance, is in the circulation area of the Joliet paper.

If in the future I can be of some value to you don't hesitate to drop me a line.

Respectfully Yours,
